

Analysis of Pricing Trends: 2008 – 2020

The Résumé Writers' Digest Annual Industry Survey asks résumé writers about their pricing strategies, including an hourly charge (whether that's a rate they publicly quote to clients for updates and new projects — or whether they use that rate only for internal use when quoting projects).

The most common hourly charge cited in responses from 2008 to 2020 ranged from a low of $50 in 2008 to $150 an hour in the 2015 Résumé Writers' Digest Annual Industry Survey. Hourly rates ranged from a low of $18 an hour to $600 an hour in the 2019 Resume Writers' Digest Annual Industry Survey.

In a separate question, respondents were asked to provide a dollar amount for their “average” résumé and cover letter package.

While the hourly rate you base your prices on — and what you ultimately charge for a résumé and cover letter — will depend on many factors (including the type of clients you work with, your experience/certifications, level of personalization you offer, etc.), my recommendation is that your hourly rate should be a minimum of $50 per hour (and probably closer to $90-$100/hour), and your average charge for a résumé and cover letter should be a minimum of $450, considering the average résumé project takes 8 hours.
